THE SHAPING OF THINGS TO COME

Innovation and Mission for the 21st Century Church with Alan Hirsch and Michael Frost

There is currently unprecedented interest and focus on reshaping the church for mission - with a buzz around emerging church, mission shaped church, fresh expressions of church (or whatever you like to call it). It's an exciting time to be alive as God beckons us into the future. But we need retooling and retraining. Alan and Mike have been involved in church planting and training missional leaders for several years. They have a fantastic sense of what God is up to in mission in the emerging culture round the world. This day will explore how the church can recalibrate itself for mission, rebuilding from the roots up - expect a mix of inspiration, stories, reflection, encouragement, conversation, leadership training, theology, and practical advice. We hope it will fuel your ongoing mission.

Alan Hirsch directs Forge, a mission leadership training network in Melbourne and is widely regarded for his radical approach to mission in the West. Michael Frost is a teacher, writer, church leader and one of Australia's leading communicators and evangelists. They have co-authored the book 'The Shaping of Things to Come'. They are coming a long way so don't miss this chance to hear them!
